INSANITY THE DEFENSE PLANNED BY SCHMIDT. MURDERER OF GIRL

INSANITY

Chaplain Evers of the Tombs Says He Is Shamming-Four in His Family Killed Themselves in Last Five Years.

DENTIST ACCOMPLICE HELD: MAID DISCHARGED IN COURT

The remarkable physical resemblance between Hans Schmidt, the lekyll-Hyde murderer of Anna Aumueller, and Ernest Muret, a dentity practising without a license who was in partnership with Schmidt in a counterfeiting plant at No. 516 West One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street, leads Inspector Faurot to the belief that the men are brothers or, certainly blood relations. They are not only physically but mentally alike and pictures and statuary found in Muret's rooms at No. 301-St. Nicholas avenue show that he was at least a sympathizer with forms of degeneracy to which Schmidt admits he was addicted.

The two men talk alike, look alike and think alike, although there is nothing to show that Muret was concerned in the murder or dismemberment of Anna Aumueller. Muret denies that he knew anything about the crime. He also denies that he was interested in counterfeiting operations, despite the fact that evidence has been gathered establishing that he and Schmidt had a counterfeit $20 bill factory at the West One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street address and were also experimenting with bills of the $10 denomination. BUILDING DEFENSE OF INSANITY.

Throughout a series of meetings with officials and detectives lasting until late afternoon Schmidt maintained an unbroken pose of insanity to-day. If, as is claimed, he is shamming, he has mapped out a perfect line of fraudulent mental disorder. Bearing out the claims of those who believe Schmidt to be insome

s news from the town of his birth in Germany. Several members of his family are in lunatic asylums and there have been four homicides in five years among his kin, according to a cable despatch received Chief William J. Flynn of the Secret Service, says that Schmidt and Muret tally with the description of two men who have been passing $20 gold certificates in New Haven, Boston and other New England points. The Secret Service agents have picked up thirty-five of these certificates. Until Chief Flynn gets the plates, press, paper, ink and other materials found in the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street flat he will be unable to tell if Schmidt and Muret actually turned out the counterfeit money his men have found in New England, but he believes they did. Muret was arraigned in Harlem police court to-day. He was arrested late last night at his dental establishment at St. Nicholas avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. The detectives had been on his trail for hours and were waiting for him when he entered the house.

Muret was accused of having a loaded revolver in his possession, in violation of the Sullivan law. The revolver was found in the St. Nicholas avenue flat, which served as Muret's office. Two of the cartridges had been discharged. Muret waived examination and was held by Magistrate Krotel in $5,000 ball for trial.

Pertha Zech, a maid in Muret's establishment, who was arrested with him last night, was discharged by Magistrate Krotel. She had been held as a witness.

Chief Surgeon Palmer of the Police Department made a careful examination to-day of a bone found in a vacant lot in One Hundred and Piftysecond street between Seventh avenue and Macomb's place, which was supposed to be part of the body of Anna Aumueller. The bone was a remnant, the remains of an animal which some one had attempted to de-Schmidt admitted in the Tombs to-day to Chaplain Lake Evers that he was engaged in the business of making counterfeit money. He and Muret had a complete plant in a four-room flat on the top floor of the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street house and were about ready, it would appear from the looks of the place, to flood the market with tendollar and twenty-dollar bills.

TOO MANY RICH AND TOO MANY POOR, HE SAYS. "Where did you get the plate for a $20 bill that was found in your trunk?" Father Evers asked Schmidt.

"God gave it to my replied the murderer. "There are too many rich
